Floribunda ROSES

LARGE-FLOWERING BEDDING ROSES

Floribundas are top-notch for borders and general mass planting. They grow taller and much bushier than Hybrid Teas, and the plants are simply covered with masses of bloom in one wave after another all summer long. They are most effective in beds or borders of one variety. Blooms are carried in clusters; some varieties are semi-double, some very double, and others are like perfect miniature Hybrid Teas. Floribundas are very easy to care for and will repay you many times over for the space they occupy.

BABY BLAZE. Velvety cherry-red with a white eye at the center. Flowers are usually carried in large clusters. Richer in color in the fall. A splendid bushy plant for hedges, and very effective planted at the base of Blaze climber. Plant Pat. No. 1362. $2.00 each; 3 for $5.25

HOW TO PLANT ROSES

Rose beds should be prepared well in advance of the arrival of the plants.

Roses require sun, at least half of the day. Protection from strong winds is also desirable. The beds should be placed where the soil is naturally well drained, or drainage should be provided. The soil should be good garden loam. If it is poor, remove the top 8 to 10 inches, spade up the bottom, mixing in some good manure and replace the top portion with good top-soil, letting it settle well before planting.

The Roses should be planted about 12 to 15 inches apart each way, varying the distance somewhat, depending on the vigor and spread of the varieties selected.

All Roses should be planted as soon as received. But the bundles can usually be kept intact for a week, if kept in a cool dark place. If delayed in planting for more than one week, remove the plants from the bundles, and hill them in carefully in a shady and moist place, until wanted.

When planting in the fall, no pruning is necessary but cutting back to 6 to 8 inches can do no harm. Immediately after planting, hill the soil around each plant for at least 6 inches.

When planting in the spring, trim the branches back to 4 to 5 inches. If planting late in the spring, when it is warm, and it often is after the middle of April, hill the soil up slightly and keep the plants shaded from the sun for several weeks; water well each day.

Full planting directions are sent with each shipment, and one should read them carefully before proceeding with the job.

Best for Roses is A.C.P. Rose and Floral Dust, a complete insecticide and fungicide, which can also be used as a spray. It stimulates plant growth and is harmless to foliage or blooms. It is convenient, easy and pleasant to use and is triple acting. It can be purchased at most seed stores or in any garden department of general stores. If you cannot secure it locally, please write to us and we will secure it for you.
